CONVERSION STRATEGY

01

Your PDP is not for cold traffic.

Cold traffic doesn't know you. Warm traffic is comparing. Hot traffic just needs a reason to click. The same page fails all three.

SWIPE →

SOUND FAMILIAR?

You optimized the wrong variable.

A page converting 8% of hot buyers and 0.5% of cold ones averages to about 2%. That number doesn't mean the page is broken.

The routing is broken, not the page.

STAGE 01: COLD

They don't know you. Lead with proof, not product.

Price means nothing when trust is zero.

SOCIAL PROOF FIRST

Reviews or a brand logo bar before the hero image, not buried below the fold.

PROBLEM-FIRST COPY

Name their situation before naming your product. They need to feel recognised before they'll listen.

SHORT BRAND CONTEXT

Who you are and who you're for, in two sentences max. Cold traffic needs context, not enthusiasm.

STAGE 02: WARM

They're comparing. Give them a reason to stop.

Warm traffic isn't asking "should I buy this?" They're asking "should I buy THIS or that other one?"

COMPARISON TABLE

Side-by-side vs the alternative they're already considering. Your wins need to be obvious at a glance.

BENEFIT-LED COPY

Not what it does. What it does for them, specifically. "Saves 2 hours weekly" beats "time-saving feature."

OBJECTION-ADDRESSING REVIEWS

Surface reviews that answer the hesitation they're holding, not just your highest-rated ones.

STAGE 03: HOT

They've decided. Get out of their way.

Hot traffic made the decision mentally. Everything between intent and checkout costs you the sale.

BUY BUTTON ABOVE THE FOLD

No scrolling to find it. They've decided. Let them act on it without hunting for the button.

GENUINE URGENCY ONLY

Real low stock, real offer end date. Fake urgency trains buyers to ignore all urgency signals.

ONE CLEAR PATH

No upsells on the PDP. One product, one offer, one button. That's the entire job of this page.

THE BUILD

Match the entry point to the mental state.

Cold Ad → Pre-sell / Quiz → Warm PDP → Cart Page

1. Run cold paid traffic to a pre-sell page: quiz, advertorial, or problem-led landing. Not your PDP.

2. Retarget everyone who engaged to your full social-proof PDP: reviews, comparisons, benefits.

3. Cart abandons get a stripped offer page: one product, one offer, one button. Nothing else.

RECAP

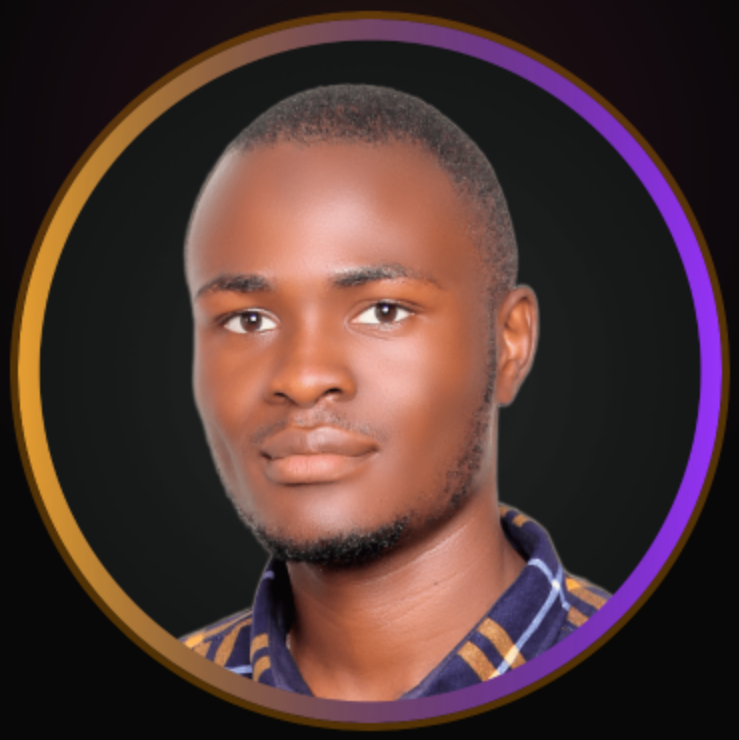

Three buyers. Three jobs.

Cold traffic needs trust before it'll consider the product

Warm traffic is comparing. Help them choose, not just commit

Hot traffic needs a clear path, not another pitch

Route by awareness or you're averaging out the problem

Is your PDP built for one type of buyer?

Most Shopify stores are. DM me "AUDIT" and I'll tell you which stage your traffic is at, and what page they actually need.
